

Congressman Pence, along with the rest of House Republican leadership, presented the "Republican Road to Recovery," a blueprint for the Republican alternative budget which will be dropped next week.

As The Hill reports:

The proposal precedes a more detailed plan set to come out next week that will be offered as the GOP alternative during next week's floor debate. The Democratic budget resolution was approved through committee on a party-line vote.

"The president's budget would have us cast all of our cares and worries on a government we cannot afford while leaving our children and grandchildren crushing debt and exorbitant taxes," reads the introduction, signed by the three top Republican leaders in the House.

Congressman Pence spoke on the floor, saying that the "American people want this Congress to put our fiscal house in order:"
